Simulations and Experiments to Determine Energy Losses in Dividing Flow
Evan Lemley, University of Central Oklahoma

Establish energy losses in dividing flow junctions for variable angles, diameters, and branch flow fractions to allow better prediction and understanding of laminar flow in pore networks.