

Ultra-Broad Bandwidth Cavity Enhanced Spectroscopy Study of Combustion

Kevin K. Lehmann, Department of Chemistry, University of Virginia

Supercontinuum sources are rapidly developing and are attractive for spectroscopic probes of complex mixtures as found in combustion systems. We are coupling one to a low loss, broad bandwidth optical cavity to allow for high sensitivity detection of absorption.

